

Catalytic Chemistry

- I try to discover and develop new catalytic chemistry concepts and enabling materials for transformations of molecules into chemicals and fuels that can power our society efficiently.
- My research involves the discovery of new and improved catalytic materials and the determination of reaction pathways through detailed characterization of working catalysts and theoretical models.